WESTERN DIVISION

JERRY TATUM, Plaintiff,

vs.

COMMISSIONER OF
SOCIAL SECURITY, Defendant.

Case No. 1:12-cv-017
Dlott, J.
Litkovitz, M.J.

REPORT AND RECOMMENDATION

This matter is before the Court on plaintiff's motion for attorney fees under the Equal Access to Justice Act (EAJA) (Doc. 23), which the Commissioner does not oppose (Doc. 24).

The EAJA provides for an award of attorney fees to a party who prevails in a civil action against the United States "when the position taken by the Government is not substantially justified and no special circumstances exist warranting a denial of fees." Bryant v. Comm'r of Soc. Sec., 578 F.3d 443, 445 (6th Cir. 2009) (citing 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A)). The EAJA provides:

[A] court shall award to a prevailing party other than the United States fees and other expenses, in addition to any costs awarded pursuant to subsection (a), incurred by that party in any civil action (other than cases sounding in tort), including proceedings for judicial review of agency action, brought by or against the United States in any court having jurisdiction of that action, unless the court finds that the position of the United States was substantially justified or that special circumstances make an award unjust.

28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(1)(A).

For its position to be substantially justified, the United States must show that it had a reasonable basis in law and in fact to undertake the challenged action. Pierce v. Underwood, 487 U.S. 552 (1988). Under the EAJA, substantial justification means the government's position was "justified in substance or in the main." Id. at 565. In other words, the Court must determine whether the government's position was justified in law and in fact to a degree that would satisfy a reasonable person. Id. See also Perket v. Sec'y of H.H.S., 905 F.2d 129, 132 (6th Cir. 1990); Jankovich v. Bowen, 868 F.2d 867, 869 (6th Cir. 1989). It is the government's burden under the EAJA to prove that its position was substantially justified. See Scarborough v. Principi, 541 U.S. 401, 414-15 (2004).

In this case, plaintiff is the prevailing party, and the position taken by the Commissioner was not substantially justified. After plaintiff filed his Statement of Errors, the Commissioner and plaintiff stipulated to reversal of the final decision of the Commissioner and moved the Court to remand this matter to the Commissioner for further proceedings pursuant to Sentence Four of 42 U.S.C. § 405(g). (Doc. 19). In accordance with the parties' stipulation, the District Judge remanded the matter to the Commissioner for further administrative proceedings and a new decision pursuant to Sentence Four.

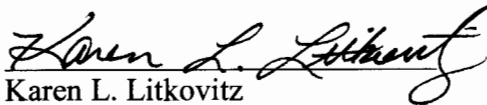

Because the Commissioner stipulated to the remand of this matter, the Commissioner has not met his burden of proving substantial justification. Further, after careful review of the record, and in the absence of any opposition by the Commissioner, the undersigned finds no evidence of special circumstances to bar a fee award here. Accordingly, EAJA fees should be awarded to plaintiff's counsel for her work conducted before this Court (i.e., the work in securing the remand).

The Court finds that the hourly rate of $165.00, adjusted for cost-of-living increases since enactment of the EAJA, and the 22.25 hours claimed by counsel for work performed on this case are reasonable. See 28 U.S.C. § 2412(d)(2)(A). The award is payable to plaintiff rather than plaintiff's counsel. See Astrue v. Ratliff, ___ U.S. ___, 130 S.Ct. 2521, 2529 (2010). See also Renneker v. Astrue, No. 1:10-cv-386, 2012 WL 12696, at *2 (S.D. Ohio Jan. 4, 2012) (Beckwith, J.) (noting that "assignment of an EAJA award executed in advance of any actual award, violates the Anti-Assignment Act, 31 U.S.C. § 3272,” and that to make an award directly to the attorney before the Commissioner determines whether the plaintiff owes a pre-existing debt to the United States against which the EAJA fee award could be offset “would jeopardize the ability of the United States to collect such debts, if any exist”). As the award of EAJA fees may be offset against any pre-existing debt plaintiff may owe to the United States, the fee award must be made to plaintiff and not to plaintiff’s attorney.

The Court therefore RECOMMENDS that the EAJA fee petition be GRANTED and that plaintiff be AWARDED $3,671.25 in attorney fees.
